THE EIGHTEEN VICTIMS OF ASSASSIN ORCHARD

The Cross Examination of the Chief Witness Against Haywood Begins

It is Brought Out That He Was a Wife Deserter and a Bigamist Before He Became a Hired Murderer.

Boise, June 6.—Harry Orchard, crowned his admission of grave crimes today when continuing his testimony against Haywood, he made an explicit confession of the murder of Steunenburg by an infernal machine that directly opens the way for his own conviction and execution for a mortal offense.

He swore that the assassination of Steunenburg was first suggested by Haywood, Moyer, Pettibone and himself, was financed by Haywood and executed by himself, after the failure of an attempt in which Jack Shimpkins had participated.

Orchard brought the total of his own murdered victims to eighteen and detailed the circumstances under which he tried to murder former Governor Peabody of Colorado, Judge Goldard, Judge Ebbert, General Sherman Bell, Dave Moffatt, and Frank Herne, including the confession to a plan to kidnap a child of one of his former associates.

Under cross examination by the defense, Orchard confessed his guilt of deserting his wife and young child in Ontario, fleeing to British Columbia with Hattie Simpson, the wife of another man, and committing bigamy by marrying a third woman at Cripple Creek. Through the shocking details of murder plots, stories of bomb making and tales of man hunts with saved off shot guns and infernal machines as weapons, the witness went on in the same off-hand manner that marked his demeanor yesterday.

His voice dropped to a lower key as the pitiful story of the long hunt for Steunenburg narrowed down to the last day and he told of the race from the hotel to Steunenburg's home to beat his victim with the death trap and meeting him in the evening as the victim walked unconsistently to the door. Through it all he winced but once, and that was when the defense made him name his six sisters and one brother and give their residences in Ontario and New York.

The defense fought the story with a multiplicity of objections and succeeded in heading off an attempt to tell the story of the murder of Arthur Collins at Telluride and temporarily cutting out the contents of a telegram received and a telegram sent by Orchard after he was arrested. For the rest, the state managed to get in the story intact.

The state today began its corroboration of Orchard's crime tale by producing the head casing of the Peabody bomb. Orchard identified it, and swore he brought it from Canyon City to Denver, then to Wallace, where he gave it to a man named Cunningham. It was thrown into the river and the state promises to prove its recovery.

Haywood and his kinfold listened quietly to the long recital. The first show of feeling was one of amusement when Attorney Richardson began his onslaught and brought out Orchard's domestic crimes.

There were the same precautions and the same armed guards today to protect Orchard and the same court room scenes, except that among the spectators the women to the men were as two to one.

Orchard finished his direct examination and cross examination had only reached the corner of the days of '72 when the court arose. The cross examination will be continued tomorrow.

THE WIDOW STEUNENBURG.

She Hopes That Orchard May Have a Chance to Lead an Honest Life.

Seattle, June 6.—A special to the Post-Intelligencer from Walla Walla says: "Harry Orchard has done many wrongs, but I hope he has repented now that he understands their magnitude, and that he may be given a chance to lead a good honest life after the present ordeal is passed." This is the statement of Mrs. Frank Steunenburg, widow of the former governor of Ohio.

Mrs. Steunenburg is attending the annual camp meeting and conference of the Seventh Day Adventists. She seems to be above hatred of the man who killed her husband and her conversation would indicate that she has forgiven him. As to Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone she expressed no opinion, saying she had not thought of their connection with the case. She is leading a secluded life, spending most of the time reading the Bible and other religious works.

She said: "The trial of Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone is the commencement of a national struggle between the United States government and organized labor and will eventually lead to a rebellion. Mr. Steunenburg always believed a struggle for supremacy would come, though he did not know when. When he prepared his first message to the public, after he was elected governor he was at a loss as to the position to take regarding unions, and often consulted me but finally he decided if any trouble came during his administration he would be fair with both sides and act as he considered right. When the trouble did arise Mr. Steunenburg was greatly worried, and one evening, after he had made a final stand, he told me he thought it would cost him his life."

"The thought that his life was at stake did not influence him in what he thought was right. After completing his term as governor he never believed his life was in danger. He had practically forgotten the ordeal through which he had passed. His assassination was a terrible shock."

"Since his death I have learned that there were several attempts made on Mr. Steunenburg's life. One night when Mr. Steunenburg, our daughter and myself were at home, we were badly frightened by some one prowling around the house. We learned afterward that it was Orchard, who was there with the intention of shooting Mr. Steunenburg."

"The thought that his life was at stake did not influence him in what he thought was right. After completing his term as governor he never believed his life was in danger. He had practically forgotten the ordeal through which he had passed. His assassination was a terrible shock."

A WITNESS FALLS DOWN

In the Case Against Mayor Schmitz

He Denied That He Had Been a Victim of Extortion.

San Francisco, June 6.—A few minutes before the adjournment of court this afternoon the defense in the trial of Schmitz for extortion scored what they consider a signal point during the cross-examination of one of the prosecution's chief witnesses, Antonio B. Blanco. Until the great fire Blanco was proprietor of the Del Monaco, one of the five French restaurants from whose owners the mayor and Ruef are accused of having extorted thousands of dollars under the threat "implied, if not expressed," to prevent the re-issuance of their liquor licenses.

"Did Ruef ever tell you that if you did not pay money you would not get your licenses renewed?" asked Attorney Campbell, the mayor's senior counsel.

"No," replied Blanco promptly, "he did not."

"Did the mayor ever tell you that?"

"No."

"Did anybody ever tell you so?"

"No, nobody ever made that threat to me," said Blanco.

Four witnesses were on the stand today, Officer Charles F. Staley, secretary of the board of police commissioners; former Police Commissioner Thomas Reagan; Dr. Joseph Pohen and Antonio Blanco.

The first witness tomorrow will be Joseph Malanti, present proprietor of the Del Monaco. He acted as agent for the other French restaurants and handed to Ruef the money which the prosecution claims was extorted and which the defense maintains was paid purely as a bribe and in pursuance of a legal contract by which Ruef was to act as attorney for the Frenchmen in the matter of securing the removal of the licenses which had been held up by Commissioners Hutton and Reagan on charges of immorality.

The man who conducted the negotiations with Ruef on behalf of the other restaurant keepers and himself, and whose name appears as a signature to the contract it is alleged, is dead.

Former Commissioner Reagan testified minutely to the sudden determined change of the mayor's attitude in the French license renewal, from advising a refusal, to the demanding they be granted, simultaneously with the appearance of Ruef, as attorney for the restaurants and his testimony implicated the waiter's union in a plot to expose the immorality of these places as a result of union difficulties with their proprietors.

Former Commissioner Pohen told of the compelling by Ruef of a set of bogus regulations, that the government of restaurants and how he and the boss laughed over those and how after they had been by Ruef submitted to the police board the held-up licenses were renewed.

Blanco testified that he and the proprietors of the Pap, Del Monaco's, Marchand's and Tortoni's had raised a fund of $10,000 to be paid Ruef "as a lawyer and political boss" for "taking care" of their licenses.

Honey conducted the examinations for the state and Campbell cross-examined for the defense. After the adjournment Mr. Honey was asked when Ruef would be called to the stand. He replied that he was unwilling to say because he did not want to give Campbell a chance to prepare for Ruef's cross-examination.

Today's attendance at the trial was larger than ever before. Crowds pressed about the locked doors of the Bush street synagogue before the opening of the morning's session. During the sessions every pew in the large auditorium was filled and scores of persons stood.

DAINTY FOOD
Turns Pale Cheeks to Pink.
Our best physicians of the present day seek to cure patients by the use of food, rather than drugs, and this is the true method, for all physicians agree that only from food can the body be rebuilt.

Many people fail to give their physicians credit, for after living on poorly selected or badly cooked food for a long time, perhaps, and when their ailments become chronic, they expect the doctor, with some magic potency, to instantly rebuild them.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT.

A Fatal Incident in Two Hundred-Mile Endurance Run.

Albany, N. Y., June 6.—The two hundred-mile automobile endurance run, under the auspices of the New York Motor club, ended in the loss of one life and the serious, if not fatal injury to two other persons about three miles east of Albany today, when one of the automobiles crashed into an electric car. Clarence McKenzie, of New York, president of the Standard Brake company, was instantly killed. W. H. Mosher, a bicycle policeman, and W. H. Swan of New Britain, Conn., the chauffeur, are in a hospital. Mosher is badly injured. Swan is said not to be so seriously injured.

A STATE OF UNCERTAINTY.

Regarding the Future of the Russian Parliament.

St. Petersburg, June 6.—In view of the prevalent reports that Premier Stolypin has abandoned the defense of parliament and that its dissolution is imminent, an article in the Novoe Vremya today, signed by the premier's brother and opposing such a step, has attracted general attention.

The promulgation by parliament of a new election law in violation of the constitution is considered likely to result in another crisis similar to the one through which Russia has just passed. Diplomatic and political circles still believe the days of parliament are numbered and reports from inner circles of the government that Stolypin's attitude has changed continue in the most positive form.

The Russian official news agency's denial of the approaching dissolution is so cautiously worded that it is regarded as not excluding the possibility that a decision adverse to parliament may be reached at the first favorable opportunity.

ENFORCED LIBERALITY.

Why the American Smelter Company Adopted The Bonus System.

Helena, June 6.—It was developed today that a demand had been made upon the management of the East Helena plant of the American Smelting and Refining company for an advance of fifty cents a day in the wage scale of 400 employees, and that company was given ten days in which to accept or reject the demand.

The matter had been taken up with the executive officials of the company in New York. The company today made an announcement of the inauguration of the bonus system, whereby employees of less grade than foremen are given a twenty per cent bonus on their yearly wages through the working of a certain number of shifts. This became effective on June 1. The plant is the largest of the company in the inter-mountain section.

JAPANESE MINE STRIKE.

Tokio June 6.—Reports from Matsuyama say that the situation at the Beshi copper mine is very grave. The telegraph is cut and the details are unknown, but a thousand striking employees are using dynamite and gunpowder freely. The telephone station was destroyed by fire and a clerk was burned to death. The grievances are unreported, but the strikers are determined to destroy the whole mine. The troops have been dispatched.

THE GOULD SKELETON

Partly Exposed to the Public Gaze

The Wife's Lawyer Accommodatingly Offer to Show More of It.

New York, June 6.—The case of Mrs. Howard Gould, who instituted a suit for separation from her husband, was given the first public airing in court today. The occasion was the hearing of arguments on the motion of counsel for Mr. Gould to strike out certain allegations in Mrs. Gould's complaint. At the conclusion the attorneys were given until Monday to file briefs.

The grounds on which Mrs. Gould is suing her husband as shown by parts of the complaint are: First, the abandonment of Mrs. Gould by her husband; second, an allegation that the habits and conduct of Gould are such that it is improper for his wife to live with him. Third, that since September he has neglected his wife and refused to provide for her except that he has paid for her support at a hotel since that time. Fourth, that Gould has treated his wife with extreme cruelty, employed spies to harass her, caused her mail bag to be tampered with, maintained illicit relations with women of bad character, and employed an ex-convict and several New York detectives to procure improper evidence against Mrs. Gould.

Delancy Kiehl said that every allegation against Mr. Gould will be denied when the answer is filed. He maintained that the charges to which he objected as scandalous and irrelevant, did not tend to support the allegation of cruelty. He especially objected to the charge that for three years Gould had maintained illicit relations with women of bad character, and had conducted himself in this respect in an openly notorious manner. He declared that the charges were made for the purpose of putting the defendant in an embarrassing position, that in other cases where such allegations had been introduced the court has stricken them out.

In reply to Nichol, Clarence Shearn, counsel for Mrs. Gould, said this if the defense would ask for a bill of particulars, specific charges would be made of so serious a character that he would not presume to mention them in court in the course of his argument. "We have tried to make the case as little scandalous as possible," said Mr. Shearn. "I do not want to make the complaint any more specific in open court. But if the allegation that the defendant for three years maintained illicit immoral relations with women of bad character and conducted himself notoriously and openly in this respect is too general, we will make it more specific. It is true we do not say whether defendant's actions were adulterous or worse, but we will be glad to submit a full bill of particulars if asked for."

THE TARIFF SECONDARY

Mr Bryan Says to the Trust Question

He Compliments Mr. Roosevelt in Giving Force to the Democratic Platform

New York, June 6.—Asked today if he considered the question of tariff reform an essential in the coming campaign, Bryan replied: "There are other questions relatively of more importance at present, such as trusts, railroads, etc. In my opinion the tariff will not be a paramount issue."

In an address before the board of trade, where he was entertained at luncheon, Mr. Bryan said: "Western farmers want to voice their complaint of a form of gambling in your organization. Speculation in the necessities of life is a serious thing. If by betting on wheat the price is lowered, the farmer is hurt. If the price is advanced the man who buys flour is hurt. You seem to distinguish between gambling and speculation in ways which amuse the western farmer. The man who bets upon the turn of the card, you call a gambler and the man who straddles railroads you call a financier. Bryan said he was glad of an opportunity to commend the action of President Roosevelt in the direction of railroad regulation, saying: "I am very glad he has seen fit to take advantage of the plank that we put in our platform. It was made for use and I am glad that some one was able to use it."

EL PASO SMELTER CLOSES.

"LAST MEASURE" URGED AGAINST UNITED STATES

The Tone of the Press of Japan Grows Rather More Warlike.

Tokio, June 6.—The Herald which is supporting Count Okuma in his position as the American question, says this morning: "The San Francisco outrages are worse than the murder of a missionary in China, which resulted in the occupation of Kiao Chou. Who would blame an appeal to the last measure if an impotency to protect our treaty rights is proved?"

"We hope, however, that Ambassador Aoki will be firm enough to make the Washington government quickly take measures to mete out justice to the Japanese."

a simple remedy for liver trouble and biliousness

Guaranteed under the Pure Food and Drugs Act, June 30, 1906. Serial number 7517.

The liver is a wonderful organ, always at work filtering, purifying and manufacturing ingredients necessary to life. It is the central laboratory of the body. It plays the part of a natural poison antidote. The poison contained in the decomposing food and waste of the body are arrested by it and rendered harmless. The liver is the seat of manufacture of bile, a fluid which keeps sweet the intestine and aids to digest food. Healthy bile is an antiseptic and when deficient or absent the contents of the bowels become putrid and full of poisonous matter. You can always keep your liver in a healthy condition by using Dr. Edwards' Compound Dandelion Tablets or Pills. They act directly upon the liver and produce a healthy flow of bile.

Never Enough

Did you ever see a girl who had as many trinkets and pretty things as she wanted? And as the twig is inclined so the tree is bent; in other words, the girl never outgrows her youth in this particular. There is never a day in the life of the normal woman when she does not admire the beautiful. I use the word "normal" in this connection advisedly. If a woman, for some cause or other, ceases to love jewelry and "pretty things," she is no longer normal. She has had a brain storm and has become a "freak."

Of course the only justification for gift giving is the desire to please. We don't give presents because we have no other way to spend our money, but because we want to afford enjoyment to a friend. Then why not give the friend the kind of present she wants?

I have been talking to you about graduation presents in general. Maybe you would like to have the matter more in detail. For instance, could you think of a remembrance that would be more acceptable to a girl than a handsome piece of Mexican drawn work? Of course I have some articles in drawn work that are not suitable for young people, but on the other hand, I would not sell you a piece like that. I think too much of your future business to destroy your confidence. There is almost no virtue greater than candor.
